"When we were building our home, I honestly didn't care, or even think about the doors that we would pick. I figured, 'hey, if the door works, and it looks okay, then it's fine by me.'

Then my brother handed me a Simpson catalog. That's when I realized that I had a lot more options, and I started to get pretty picky about all my doors. I'm glad he brought Simpson to my attention – I have a whole lot more respect for door designs than I ever thought I would."

“Although my family always thought it was a little strange, I’ve always been into doors. That is, I truly believe that the door makes the house or the room. What catches your eye when driving by a house? The door. If that door just doesn’t cut it, don’t you view the house a lot differently? I definitely do – it’s the centerpiece of everything.

So when it came time to choose a door for my house, you can imagine how special that door had to be. Thankfully Simpson feels the same way about doors as I do (although it’s not strange for them to feel that way!), so I got exactly what I wanted.”

"I've always had a knack for drawing. So when we wanted to find the perfect door for our dream home, I thought, why not just sketch out what I would love to have, then see if I can find something close. But with Simpson, they said, why not just settle for close? They built the door exactly as I had envisioned it. No headaches. No worries. And best of all, no settling."

“Who knew a door could have such an impact? I am a designer by profession, so I rely on my eye for every home decision. Simpson provided me with such an array of choices, from the elegant to the traditional to the unique, I was very impressed. We were elated with our final design decision, and this process couldn't have gone any smoother.”

"I didn't think I would get this excited about a door. I was a little indecisive at first, but then I just chose wood and designs that matched who I am and reflected my taste. My Simpson door really added a special aura to my entire house. It made everything feel more uniquely 'me.'"

"In a world of conformity and sameness, it's nice to find a product that allows you to put your own unique stamp on it. I have, let's say, eclectic tastes. From the colors to the details, everything in my home reflects me. Of course I wanted my front door to do the same. It's the first thing anyone sees when they come to my house. That's why I had a Simpson door custom built for my front entry. Now, it's my door."

"I thought I knew exactly the type of door I wanted. That is until I took a peek into the Simpson catalog... then I wasn't so sure. I definitely had a unique vision, but then started to realize that I could build upon that vision with a custom door. There were transom and sidelight options that hadn't occurred to me, and along with size and width choices, I created my perfect door."
